

Capture New Business Before Your Competitors Do By Advertising in the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce Newcomer & Relocation Guide 2005/2006

Did You Know:

- Corporations and families who move to San Diego will spend more money during the first year that the established corporation or household spends in five years.
- It is typically the middle-to senior-level employee who chooses to relocate, providing a market with above-average disposable income.
- The San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce and the City of San Diego are the first to know about individuals and corporations contemplating a move to the area.

Hit Top Prospects

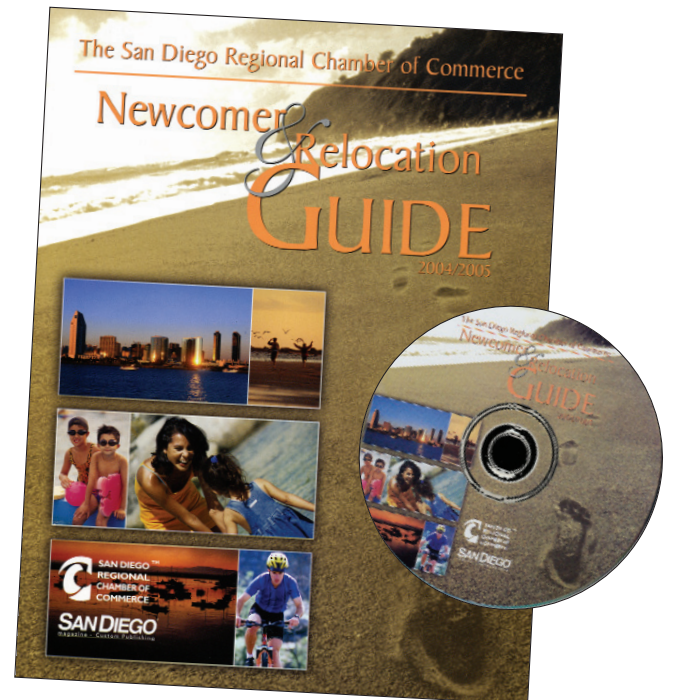

The Newcomer & Relocation Guide is one of the most popular Chamber publications because it provides invaluable information to people moving to the San Diego region. The magazine's editorial content is geared to answer virtually every question or concern posed by new members of our San Diego community and covers a wide range of topics that aid newcomers in their buying decisions.

Don't Miss Out

This useful guide will enjoy an extended shelf life and will be referred to again and again by newcomers and those seeking to relocate to San Diego.

The Newcomer & Relocation Guide is distributed to:

- San Diego's Top Employees
- Chamber Members
- Economic Development Corporation
- Realtors
- Mortgage Companies
- Builders
- Developers
- Major Banks
